Our Story

Prescott Farm has been owned by the Prescott/Pardoe family for over 200 years, though it ceased to be an active farm in the 1960's.

In 1997, the family established a private operating foundation/nonprofit organization, Prescott Conservancy, Inc. (PCI) and gifted 160 acres of farmland to it. The following year, PCI entered into a management partnership with the NH Audubon Society to offer environmental education programs on the property and in 2005, built the energy-efficient Samuel P. Pardoe Building for classroom and office space. On April 1, 2009 PCI began operating the Center independently as Prescott Farm Environmental Education Center (PFEEC).

Our mission is: "Through education and preservation, PFEEC celebrates the interconnections between our community and the natural systems which sustain us all." We offer year-round environmental education programs for all ages, including WildQuest camps, partnerships with local schools, public education programs as well as vegetable, flower and herb gardens and hiking on three miles of trails.

As a nonprofit organization, PFEEC is supported by donations from individuals, Memberships, our community business partners, program fees, grants, and the Samuel P. Pardoe Foundation.
